The French Flavor

GENERAL JEAN-VICTOR ALLARD, Canada's Quebec-born chief of the defence staff, said in Paris on Wednesday that France is helping to train the Canadian armed forces and to assist this country's military planning.

He added that he was in France in connection with the program for developing French-language training in Canadian forces.

It seems a little-publicized decision has been taken that Canada form some predominantly Frenchspeaking units, including an armored group, an air force tactical squadron and a naval unit.

Presumably in line with this policy-one, by the way, on which there has been no report of discussion in the parliamentary defence committee—General Allard is discussing the supply of French-language handbooks for use in the Canadian forces.

He announced, too, the purchase of French anti-tank missiles and seven Falcon jet liaison aircraft. No one is going to deny that France has had a colorful and dramatic military history. No one is likely to deny the magnificent fighting spirit of her troops. But if Canada is looking for assistance in the instruction of modern-day tactics it might be wiser to enlist experts whose recent record has been more distinguished. There are still survivors available from victorious British campaigns in Burma and North Africa, for instance. And even the men who fought against them insist that any military planners might profitably consult the Germans. With no intention of hurting French feelings, surely Canadian planning, in organization, tactics and logistical problems, should be geared to co-operation with those nations alongside whom our armed forces might be expected to serve. These are the predominant North Atlantic Treaty allies, the United States, Great Britain and West Germany. Indeed, there is some doubt that French forces would take the field with them except under threat to their own

It seems, in short, that too much emphasis is being placed on the necessity for a French flavor in our military pudding. The taste is not all that sweet.

Going Too Far

THE EXTERNAL AFFAIRS office at Ottawa after 1 all these years has suddenly discovered that its regulations in the issuing of Canadian passports are not security proof.

External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp has outlined new measures in the House of Commons which will make it much more difficult for passports to fall into wrong hands.

Such tightening up has been urged upon the Canadian government by the United States for a number of years, and it is unfortunate that action is being taken only after an extremely unfortunate breach involving the alleged assassin of Martin Luther

It is inconceivable that Canada should have allowed the issue of passports without production of documents or other proof for all these years, and most of the proposed measures are no more than what the average person would recognize as ordinary pre-

But having said it opens the way to some criticism as to why under the new regulations the single renewal of passports should also be stopped.

Passports are originally valid for a period of five years, but they may be renewed for another five years on application. Mr. Sharp intends to cut out this privilege for the obscure reason that many passports are lost and fall into the wrong hands.

It is hard to understand how loss of passports is going to be lessened in any way by the removal of the renewal privilege. An original passport can be lost just as easily as one which has been marked for an

One is left with the suspicion that Mr. Sharp, like the heads of other government departments, has been ordered to make his departmental services pay. To this end he has increased the cost of acquiring a passport from $5 to $10, an increase of 100 per cent, but by making renewal on a five against 10 years basis he has increased the cost of the second term from $2 (the renewal fee) to $10.

The cost of a passport on a 10-year term is thus increased from $7 to $20.

Unfortunately most of the extra revenue to the department will be swallowed up in the extra cost of printing and completing passports on a five-year instead of a 10-year basis.

If non-renewal really is necessary for security, the extra cost will have to be accepted, but Mr. Sharp's explanations so far do not bear this out, and until he does so this part of his reform must be considered as an unnecessary cost to the public and

Good Advice

CITIZENS MAY NOT be greatly impressed by Mu-nicipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell's claim that municipal leaders are giving their taxpayers "a snow job" by trying to pin the blame for increased taxes on the provincial government while their own general taxes are going up without any improvement in the quality of services. The municipalities had every right to complain about their share of school costs strikingly increasing and the provincial share decreasing, as the case appeared to be before the minister of education made adjustments. The snow, if any, blows in both directions.

But it undoubtedly is good advice that Mr. Campbell offers the Greater Victoria municipalities in connection with their own tax rates: Look into every single municipal function to see if more efficiency could be achieved with greater economy through amalgamation of services. The minister mentions three services in particular: garbage disposal, policing and fire protection. Certainly it would cost little and potentially be worth a lot to undertake a new examination of joint administration of these functions, and others such as data processing and purchasing, on a regional or intermunicipal basis.

According to the annual report of Mr. Campbell's department, one aspect of the municipal - provincial finances study launched last year is to compare costs of local and regional government — to determine the degree of disparity in costs for the various services as between municipalities and regions, and where possible to identify the causes. The results of this general investigation may in due course lend additional weight to the minister's recommendation. But in the meantime, it is hardly too early for the Greater Victoria municipalities to commence a specific study of their own.

Housing Reform Report Monday

A wide ranging reform program for Canadian housing will be presented to Parliament Monday by the federal inquiry team led by Transport Minister Paul Hellyer.

Recommendations aimed at bringing Canadians a better housing deal-in cost, availability and environment-will be included in a report to be tabled

The report will propose changes in both public and private practices affecting housing in the fields of finance, technology, administration and the con-

To be implemented, the varlous proposals would require action by federal, provincial and municipal governments; public and private business and the building trades.

The seven-member inquiry team, which harvested complaints and ideas across Canada from September to December, is known to have concluded the prime problems of home scarciand high costs should be tackled by manipulating existing systems rather than by any sharp, new departures such as massive infusions of public

To help families with low and middle-range incomes buy homes, the team wants more flexibility in the system of advancing funds through mortespecially the government-insured loans made under the National Housing Act through the government's Central Mortgage and Housing Corp. or private mortgage companies and banks.

Thus, the recommendations are expected to include propos-als for changes in the NHA to provide for mortgages in larger amounts-perhaps up to $35,000 instead of the present $18,000 limit-for repayment periods of up to 40 years in some cases in-stead of the present 25-year limit and with more flexible interest rates.

The report was expected to propose free-floating interest rates on NHA mortgages instead of the present system, whereby a ceiling rate is fixed quarterly according to the prevailing rate in long-term bond markets.

Some members of the inquiry team felt the fixed ceiling tended to be a target which pulled rates on all new mortgages towards it. Their hope is that without the ceiling and with more funds available for housing, interest rates would de

In the absence of hopes for more public housing funds in current stringent conditions, the report will look to pension funds provide more money for housing in the form of mort-

The objective is to raise total investment in housing to $20,-000,000,000 during the next five years to provide 1,000,000 new homes by the end of 1973. That would require an increase in the about $5,000,000 from the present $3.500,000,000.

Hellyer has said trusteed pension funds run by corporations should invest more in housing than the present average rate of 12 per cent of all available investment money. * * *

Other ideas that impressed the inquiry team during its tours around the country included suggestions that public housing projects should be less ghetto-like and urban renewal programs should stress rehabilitation of existing buildings.

The report is expected to suggest that public housing should be integrated with privatelyowned housing rather than seg-

CMHC is likely to be asked to alter the guiding principles it observes in providing funds for urban renewal in an attempt to place as much emphasis on restoration as rebuilding.

For individuals, the shift of emphasis could mean proposals for bigger NHA loans up to $20,000 or more—and possibly direct grants for purchase and renovation of old homes.

The inquiry was impressed by ideas of municipalities assembling banks of land on the fringes of the community and manipulating the rate at which it is offered for sale in order to help keep the lid on land prices

Also expected to figure prominently in the report are sugges tions for slicing through red tape that tends to slow down building and increase costs as pal governments all impose multitude of regulations on

Ironically, the Hellyer team is completing the mission assigned by the government at a time when home-building has achieved a record pace. An increase in housing starts in the last couple of months raised the total starts in 1968 to 196,878 units, 20 per cent more than in 1967.

However, steeply increased costs for land in most centres, a six-per-cent rise in the cost of building materials last year and a Jan. 1 jump in the NHA mortgage interest ceiling to a record 9% per cent have combined to put home ownership and many rents beyond the comfortable reach of most Canadian fami-

From CP

Proposals to strengthen ties between Canada and Latin America in the political, economic and cultural spheres were outlined in a government report tabled Friday in the

The 36-page report, prepared by a ministerial delegation which visited Latin America last fall, poses the question of whether Canada should apply for early membership in the Organization of American States.

Government sources have indicated that Canada has no intention of seeking membership in the hemispheric organization at least for the foreseeable future. The OAS embraces the United States and all 20 states of Latin America except Cuba, which was expelled some years ago. The report will be referred to the Commons external affairs committee and disbusinessmen in the developing review of Canada's foreign policy.

Tied in with the second option would be an increase in co-operation with inter-American and regional organizations with which Canada is well placed to work effectively.'

It appeared that governments of all the nine countries visited by the delegation, which included External Affairs Minister Mitchell Sharp and four other cabinet ministers, wished to have closer relations with Canada, inside or outside the OAS.

"Either way, it is the view of the mission that there should be more frequent and intensive consultation with Latin American countries on international and hemispheric affairs," the report says.

The report calls for an with Latin America, and outlines opportunities for Canadian industry to participate in the development of that

Then, we've got some tours for the armchair traveller which take you around Britain . . . all of Britain, for the trip you've always wanted.

ATLAS ADDS THE EXTRA VALUES

One of our Tours features a Season's Pass to the History of Britain . . . which assures you free entry into all of the historical castles, buildings and monuments managed by the Government. Another tour gives you a $15 voucher, which allows you to shop at famous London stores!

Come from the U.K. or Europe and are going home for a visit? G.I.T.'s are great for you, too! Pick up a car at the airport and drive off to meet the folks at home in your own car, for the stay!

Ask your Travel Agent for all the details. He'll explain the G.I.T. regulations and show you our colourful folder, entitled "GETAWAY GET-A-GIT"! If it's a Tour by Atlas...it's top-notch...all the way!

UVic Students Leave Union

By SUSAN MAYSE

The University of Victoria has withdrawn from the Canadian Union of Students as a result of a referendum on the campu Friday.

A total of 1,626 students out of the total enrolment of about 5,000 voted in the referendum. Students cast 665 votes to remain in the national students' union, and 961 were in favor of withdrawing from the organiza tion entirely.

'DISAPPOINTED'

"I was really kind of disap-pointed about the results," said student activities co-ordi Paul Watson after the votes were counted.

"What these people don't realize is that building a new national union from the ground up is going to be a lot harder than reshaping CUS would have

DEATH PREDICTED "I think CUS is going to start to die all across Canada," he said. During debates last fall over membership in CUS, it was suggested by several students that UVic should pay more allegiance to a provincial union than a national one.

Since then, the British Colum bia Assembly of Students, of which UVic was a member, has folded because of lack of funds and failure to co-ordinate the interest of member schools.

School Crisis Shifts Again To Taxpayers

The crisis over education has been transferred the regional school boards to the taxpayer with the announcement Friday of a boost in provincial govern-

The move averted a confrontation with municipal councils who were balking at giving consent to a budget $573,420 above the cially-set spending ceiling. It also put a stop to any chance of ratepayers forcing a referendum on the school

Bitter Words

A provincial government grant of $522,153 announced Friday has saved home-owners nearly two mills.

"This could be the final straw that will force pensioners to sell their homes," was the bitter comment of pensioner Geoffrey Jones, 2547 Vista Bay Road.

Every year school taxes go up, and so do mill rates to pay for hospitals, garbage, sewage and everything else. "We also pay more for all goods and services, but we certainly don't get any more.'

Mr. Jones said he and his wife will have to cut back further on all costs from haircuts to food to pay the rising tax bill.

'Every Year'

"It wouldn't be so bad if it was going to end there, but we can expect to face the same thing next year and every year after that until we die or are forced to sell," he said. "And there's just no way we can object.

In Esquiman, another pensioner, Mrs. Elizabeth Silburn, 918 Lyle Street, is faoing a in municipal taxes as well as the school board's 4.93 boost. "I hope we get an increased homeowner grant to pay for this—so far the grant has kept with tax increases. "If it doesn't, I'll soon be in trouble." she said. On Small Lot

Ironically, Mrs. Silburn is paying taxes on a small lot, as well as her house and lot which was bought years ago as an investmen

'Now that I need the money, the municipality tell me it's too small for anyone to build on, and so I can't sell it, all I can do is pay taxes," she said. The storm over the 1969 budget broke at municipal council meetings on Monday night when Saanich and Esquimalt refused approval of the provisional budget after discussions with school trustees. At least one Esquimalt rate-payer started circulating a petition to force the budget to a referendum. Figures presented by school trustees showed a governmentapproved basic education program of $14,918,654, to which was added the maximum allowable 10-per-cent increase of $1,491,865.

To that was added another $573,420, which the school board said was needed for a total operating budget of $16,-

Debt Addition

Notification of the additional amount brought the annual operating grant's new total up $15,440,807, on which to add the allowable 10-per-cent leeway, and set a new spending ceiling of $16,984,888

The total does not include a little more than $2,000,000 debt service charges, which add 3.50 mills to the budget, for a total school tax rate of 33.47 mills. Saanich school board reported an increased operating grant of $92,128, and cancelled scheduled meetings with Peninsula councils where the board had been due to ask approval for a budget which exceeded the allowable ceiling.

The revised ceiling is slightly above the board's $2,724,366 budget.

Sooke school board received an additional $85,574 grant although its budget was already under the ceiling.

Education Minister Donald Brothers said grants will be increased to each of the pro-

The big question, now that I have fallen in love, is this: is it unrealistic to expect a young man to suffer the anxieties of frustration because his fiancee happens to believe as I do? Furthermore, will my rigidity cost me a · wonderful husband?

You seem to have an answer to everything. Please tell me how to say no to a sex salesman with whom I happen to be in love.—NEED

Dear Need: Here's your answer: "My body belongs to me and I don't owe you experimental privileges or an undress rehearsal."

What happens to your body is your responsibility and it is also your problem if something unplanned should occur. Jack's theory that it is smart to try things out to see if they work before you buy is rubbish. A salesman once sold me a vacuum cleaner that worked beautifully during the 30-day trial; for some mysterious reason it fell apart two days after I bought it.

Dear Ann Landers: Yesterday the couple next door had a terrific argument. We could hear them screaming at each other although our houses are two lots apart. My husband and I went to the front door to investigate.

Quick as a flash, their threeyear-old boy came dashing out the street, directly in the path of an oncoming car. Fortunately, the driver was alert and stopped in time.

Cost Offensive Opening Soon

A major assault on food costs through consumer education will start Thursday in Victoria

Home economists, public health nurses, social workers and Consumer Association members will be getting together to answer questions on budgeting, diet and low-cost foods, according to home economist Mrs. A. B. Young.

The project is being organized to complement a Beat the Budget TV series starting Jan. 30 on Channel 8, she said Thursday.

Three groups have already been organized in Victoria, and home economists and other qualified people are available for others who want to have group discussions in their homes

Idea of the discussions will be to increase consumers' knowledge of price in comparison to value, and of homemaking.

There will also be an effort made to clarify the responsibilities of health, welfare and education agencies in the community. Groups will meet weekly to watch the programs, and to follow up with questions for the professionals, Mrs. Young

Mrs. Young

In addition, she said, there will two phone lines open to Consumers' Association members who will write down be answered later by experts. "There are ways to save, and with costs going up the they are, we must way become aware of those ways. "Low-income people and pensioners are hardest hit by the price increases, but the problem extends to people with large families and teenage children in any wage

"I'd like to see these groups as the start of a continuing program of customer education, and as a way of spreading knowledge to everyone in the community.

Television programs will show the preparation of recipes, with an emphasis on low-cost foods, especially those that are quick and easy to prepare.

There will be special tips for people living alone, and cost comparisons between homemade and store-bought Recipe books are available said Mrs. Young.

The first program will deal with meat, including buying, storage and use of leftovers. * * *
In succeeding weeks, solutions will be offered for food storage problems and cutting down on food wastes. Purchase and use of clean ing agents in the home will also be part of the program.

Basford

Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Ron Basford visited Nanaimo Friday to help Liberal Eric Winch in his campaign for the Feb. 10 Nanaimo-Cowichan-The listands byeleotion. At a $10 plate dinner, Mr. Basford said his department was concerned with preparing egislation which would govern advertising hazardous products. There would be bans to regulate the sale, import or advertising of products which were dangerous to public health. "We are now looking at the rather insidious practice of not increasing the price, but reducing the size," added Mr. Basford. In Ladysmith and Chemainus, NDP leader T. C. Douglas critcized the government's attitude to pollution He said the government "has demonstrated clearly time and time again it is far more resourceful at finding excuses for doing nothing than at licking the problem.'

Mr. Douglas felt the government should make air and water pollution a criminal offence. FOR SALE

Nip Curl in Bud

By M. V. CHESNUT

One job which shouldn't be too long delayed is the spraying of the peach tree against the leaf-curl disease. I am certainly no spray enthusiast, for I detest the job of mixing and applying the evil-smelling mixtures recommended for the health of our trees, but no matter how much I may skimp or neglect syraying elsewhere in the garden, the leaf-curi spray for peaches is an absolute must. This disfiguring disease is so common and widespread it is virually impossible to maintain a peach tree in health unless this key spray is applied. Like the botrytis disease of peonics which causes the peony flower buds to rot or dry up before they open, your peach tree must "catch" the disease afresh every spring from fungus spores which spend the winter on the bud

If you can kill these spores when the buds are swelling but before they crack open, you're home free, and your tree will come through the summer without torted, reddened and blistered. You need a summy, clear day for the job, preferably without too much wind. And as we don't have too many such days at this time of the year, you'd better have your spray materials on hand and all ready, so you can jump in and take advantage of any breaks in the

Lime-sulphur is an old reliable and inexpensive spray which does a satisfactory job; the dry powder is mixed at the rate of 10 heaping tablespoonfuls per gallon of water. Better strain the solution when you fill your spray tank or grit may clog the nozzle. If you buy lime sulphur in liquid form, mix according to the instructions on the label — I can't give you the formula as the strength varies from brand to brand. I should warn you that lime-sulphur will stain painted woodwork, so if your tree is trained against a house wall, you'll have to spread newspapers behind the tree to protect the paint, or switch to a non-staining spray. Orthorix is an improved form of sulphur spray especially effective against leaf-curl, but this will also stain paint.

Any spray containing copper will do good job against leaf-curt, and these too are inexpensive an readily available.

Bordeaux or Bordo Mixture is applied at the rate of 15 level tablespoonlus per galion. Tri-Cop is stronger and goes on at the rate of 5 thsps, per gallon. These copper-based sprays will also stain paint, but unlike sulphur, it will wash

Several other fungicides are effective against leaf-curl, and any spray contain-ing captan or phaltan can be used with confidence. My own preference is a spray based on organic mercury such as Later's Puratized, or Miller's Puraspray, or Green Cross Dormant Spray, which are all non-staining. While these are more expensive than the simple sulphur or copper preparations, they are much stronger, and smaller quantities are required.

It is poor economy to use too little spray, though, for it just one tiny bit is left unsprayed, it could re-infect the whole tree. It is important to remember that the infecting organisms are on the bud scales, and in order to wet these thoroughly, the spray should be applied with great force, ideally from above. Wherever possible, it is best to use a ladder, so the apray can be directed downward, making sure every last twig is wetted and dripping.

ARTHUR HOPPE Tells How to Fight Inflation

Help Nation—Lose Your Job

Terrible news! Unemployment's hit a new low. Too many people working. Too many people with money to spend. Inflation threatens

Our leaders are gravely alarmed. Economic advisers say they are willing to accept more unemployment to curb inflation. More unemployment, of course, for somebody

So an embattled nation is once again calling on that veteran inflation fighter Jud Joad, who has been fighting inflation man and boy for nigh on to 60 years. And Joad has once again answered his country's call to duty: he's lost his job. Like most soldiers going into action, his main problem was breaking the news to his wife, Maude "Don't look like you're going to get those gingham curtains you've been wanting, Maude." he said, climbing the rickety steps to the Joad home

'Oh, Jud, did you lose that job hoeing corn for old Mr. Walters?" asked Maude from experience. "What are you going to do?"

"Well, now, Maude, I'm going to be mighty busy fighting inflation again. You know how it is. Seems like worried about inflation they call on me."

* * * *
"I'm proud of you, Jud. But I never did rightly understand why."

'I'll explain it again, Maude. See, if'n I go on working, I'll get rich. Then you'll sashay out and buy them gingham curtains. And the price of gingham curtains 'll go sky-high. And our savings won't be worth as "We never had no savings,

"Other folks do. We got to think of them, Maude. So therefore, it's up to me to lose my job. Leastwise, that's the way the economists figure it."

"If'n the economists, feel that way, why don't they lose their jobs?" * * *

Jud was shocked, "Balls o' fire, Maude, an economist, he makes maybe $50,000 a year. Me, I was making $37.80 a week, Stands to reason I'd be giving up a lot less than him. "Then, too, I only been working a couple of months. It ain't a habit with me, the way it is with him."

"Maybe so, Jud. But I don't see where us going back on the welfare's going to be much help.

"That's because you don't Maude. Remember what someone promised during the campaign: 'What this country needs is more people on the welfare rolls and fewer people on the payrolls."

* * * *
"I thought it was t'other way around."
"And you don't understand politics, neither, Maude." With a dexterity born of long experience, Jud settled down in his battered rocking chair on the ramshackle porch and leaned back to fight inflation.

"Think it's going to be long fight, Jud?" asked Maude. "We're right low on chick peas and lard."

"Don't you worry none, Maude," said Jud protectively. "If'n we can just get a mite poorer, we'll be living in a rich and prosperous

When we discuss the serious "diseases" of the social order, we think first of crime, for it is the most shocking and dramatic; but, actually, such cumulative "diseases" as the instability of family life, the alienation between the generations, and the breakdown of human communication, are ar more serious, for they attack the central nervous system, as it were, of the social organism, whereas crime affects only the peripheries.

Courts Merger 'Surprise But Right Step'

Jack Cowan, president of the Victoria Bar Association, was "somewhat surprised" Friday that the bar was not consulted before the provincial government announced plans to merge Supreme and County courts.

"I would have thought that the government might have unings over benefit of its experience," Mr. Cowan said.

However, he added, it was a step in the right direction. It should make for greater efficiency and help ease the case load on the courts.

It appeared, said Mr. Cowan, that justices of the Supreme Court and judges of the County Court would have equal status in the new Superior Court.

He commended the government for proposed legislation to set up a permanent law reform commission, * * *

"The Bar Association has been urging this for some time." Mr. Cowan said. The commission would work with similar commissions in other provinces and recommend improvements in the field of law to the attorney-general."

It would also have the effect, Mr. Cowan said, of fostering greater uniformity of law among all the provinces of Canada.

Vancouver Island commercial fishermen Friday night opposed ederal regulations providing icensing of boats rather that fishermen contending such pro edure would give "company ontrol of the industry."

QUEBEC (CP) - Acting Premier Paul Dozois said Friday that Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal was not authorized by the Quebec cabinet to sign any agreement with France in Paris.

Dozois told reporters that as far as the Quebec government is concerned "it's all at the stage of dis-

OTTAWA (CP) - Canada's armed forces appears to be headed for "segregation rather than unification," Donald Mac-Innis (PC-Cape Breton-East Richmond) said in the Commons

MacInnis was commenting on an explanation by Defence Minister Leo Cadieux of why Canada's chief of the defence staff, Gen. Jean Allard, was in Paris studying the French

Cadieux said it was hoped parts of the manual could be used at Canada's several "French-designated" bases so as to avoid extensive translation of the Canadian manual.

MacInnis wanted to know whether the French manual is applicable to Canadian training methods."

The defence minister said he thought parts of it might be used, perhaps in naval training. MacInnis was just able to get in his crack on segregation

PORT ALBERNI - SPCA officials in Port Alberni are worried about dogs which have been killing deer in the area.

Lions' Donation Assists Heart Patients

COMOX-A $550 donation by Comox Lions Club has made it possible for St. Joseph's Hospital, Comox, to buy a cardiac pacemaker, an official said this week

The club's cheque was received by Sister Mathilda, head The club suggested that the hospital should buy the pacemaker, which helps in treating certain types of heart conditions and that money left over should be used to buy games for residents in the newly-opened extended care unit.

Sister Mathilda said that British Columbia Hospital Insurance Service paid a third of the cost of equipment bought from such donations. About $400 would go toward the pacemaker and $100 would be used to buy games. Sister Mathilda said there were 33 patients in the ex-

Report Startles Acting Premier

SATELLITE SURPRISE SPRUNG ON OUEBEC

QUEBEC (CP) - Acting Premier Paul Dozois said Friday that Education Minister Jean-Guy Cardinal was not authorized by the Quebec cabinet to sign any agreement with France in Paris. Dozois told reporters that as far as the Quebec government is concerned "it's all at the stage of discussions and negotiations."

> Cardinal had no authorization from the provincial cabi-net to engage the Quebec govrnment in any agreement.

Dozois made the comments to reporters after it was reported from Paris that Cardinal had signed an agreement with France to study the possibility of a joint telecommunications satellite for cultural and eduexchanges between Quebec and France

He said: "It is not possible because he (Cardinal) has no authority to do this."

The question to be decided is whether they fall under the um-brella of a 1965 agreement between Canada and France, which allows the provinces to make agreements with France on cultural affairs as long as they tell Ottawa in advance.

staff, Gen. Jean Allard, was in Paris studying the French military training manual.

Cadieux said it was hoped parts of the manual could be used at Canada's several "French-designated" bases so as to avoid extensive translation of the Canadian manual. MacInnis wanted to know whether the French manual is applicable to Canadian training methods." The defence minister said he thought parts of it might be used, perhaps in naval training. MacInnis was just able to get in his crack on segregation before being ruled out of order.

Northern Portfolio Proposed

By IAN STREET Legislative Repefter

A Social Credit backbencher said Friday the government is only spending "peanuts" to open up the north instead of at least $100,000,000 a year and suggested this neglect could be partly remedied by establishing a provincial northern affairs portfolio. Don Phillips (SC-South Peace River), made the statements in a speech pro pared for delivery in the Legislature Friday afternoon. He led off the throne speech debate for the government, but although he dealt with the general theme, he deleted both references contained in the text. Later, Mr. Phillips told reporters outside the House he cut his speech because it was running too long. But, he added, he still stood by both
